

Helping More New Yorkers Manage Energy Costs

If you're having trouble paying your bill, we want to help. That's why we advocated for the Enhanced Energy Affordability Program, so even more New Yorkers can save on their energy bills.

Now, New Yorkers with household incomes below the state median may be eligible for bill discounts.

About the Enhanced Energy Affordability Program (EEAP)

What is EEAP? The Enhanced Energy Affordability Program is a statewide initiative that provides customers with discounts on their energy bills.

Who is eligible? Households with incomes that fall below the state median may be eligible to receive discounts.

To qualify based on income, you must:

- Be a residential customer.
- Receive electric and/or gas service from Orange & Rockland.
- Not be enrolled in a qualifying government assistance program.
- Earn less than the household state median income thresholds.

Household Size	Income Thresholds
1	$69,475
2	$90,853
3	$112,230
4	$133,609
5	$154,986
6	$176,364
7	$180,372
8	$184,380

How much is the bill discount? Discounts range from $1 to $76.81 and vary based on whether you use electricity or gas for heating and your household income and size.

Do the discounts expire? Yes. You'll receive discounts for 18 months after you enroll, but you must reapply to remain in the program. You'll receive a letter, email, and/or text message with information when it's time to reapply.

Energy Affordability Program (EAP) You may already qualify for the Energy Affordability Program if you receive certain government benefits.

Find out more about both programs and enroll at oru.com/EAP.